STUFFING EBAYERS

DIRECTLY FROM EBAY'S AUCTIONS!

Hello everyone and thank you for buying my report. This report is short and concise and far from the traditional sales pitch! I made this report anonymous as I don't want to jeopardize my eBay account but I can assure you that I am behind a lot of products out there using different methods of internet marketing.

The method outlined in this report will help you stuff cookies onto eBay users as soon as they visit your eBay auction by using a method that circumvent and security in place on eBay's side.

WHY?

There are many reasons why you would want to do that but out of all of them, 3 are primarily important:

- Extra commissions
- Automated money in your pocket
- Targeted stuffing

OVERVIEW & SUMMARY

Affiliate tracking systems are intended to pay commissions to independent web sites ("affiliates") when users click through these sites' links to affiliate merchants. Merchants are not intended to pay commission when users merely visit affiliates' sites. Instead, commission ordinarily only becomes payable in the event that a user

1. Visits an affiliate's site,
2. Clicks through an affiliate link to a merchant, and
3. Makes a purchase from that merchant.

However, some affiliates use "cookie-stuffing" methods to cause affiliate merchants' tracking systems to conclude that a user has clicked through a tracking link (and to pay commissions accordingly) even if the user has not actually clicked through any such link. If the user subsequently makes a purchase from that merchant -- immediately, or within the "return days" period specified by the merchant's affiliate program -- the affiliate then receives a commission on the user's purchase.

PROFITING FROM COOKIE-STUFFING

Cookie-stuffing proves to be highly profitable for those who do it. Suppose an affiliate ordinarily has a 10% click-through rate from its site to its merchants. The affiliate ordinarily receives affiliate commission only if a purchase is made by one of the 10% of users who clicks through the affiliate's link. In contrast, by cookie-stuffing, the affiliate can claim commissions from any purchases made by the entire 100% of the affiliate's visitors.

This is why you should learn about cookie stuffing:

- It will allow you to stuff cookies on everyone accessing your auctions
- It will prevent you from losing affiliate commission because a user hasn't clicked a link
- Not doing cookie stuffing will hurts your pocket because other are already doing it on a massive scale

WHAT?

The concept of stuffing cookies on eBay auctions has been kept pretty secret in the past because most cookie stuffers did not want to reveal their secret. I have been using the following technique for the past 6 months without a hitch and so will you after you are done reading this report.

The principle is to create a flash file that pops-up a hidden window which stuff the cookie on the user's computer and then include the flash file in your item description. Once done, it should start stuffing cookies on everyone that visit your auction. Simple enough isn't it?

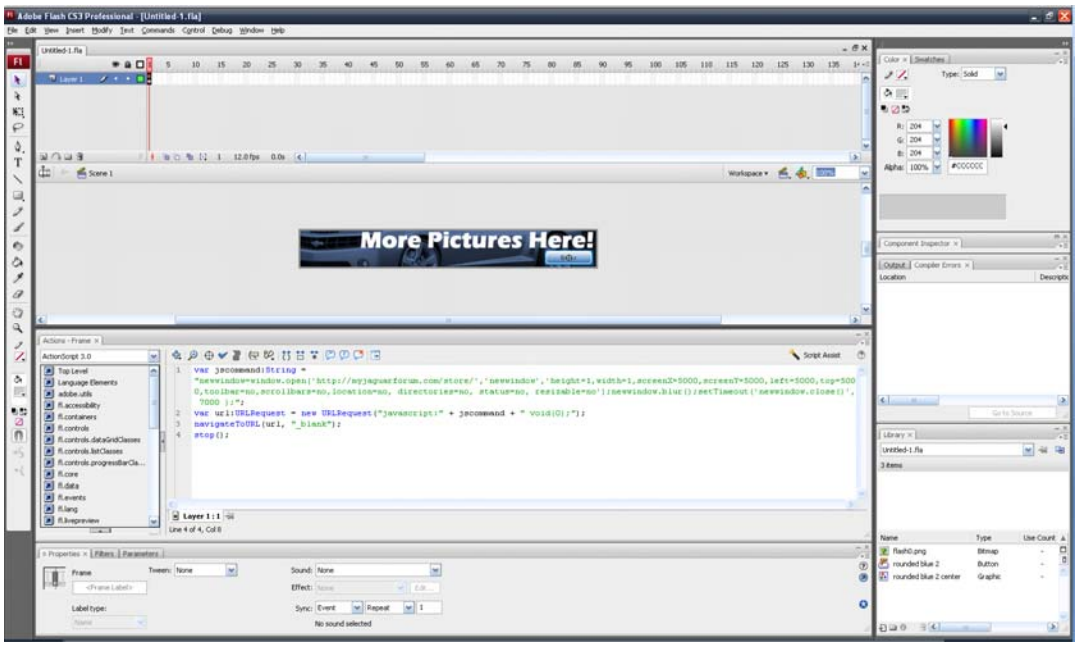
Well, there is a bit more to it than just that as you will see in the next section. First of all, you will need to get an eBay affiliate account as you want to stuff the eBay cookie on your eBay auction pages.

HOW?

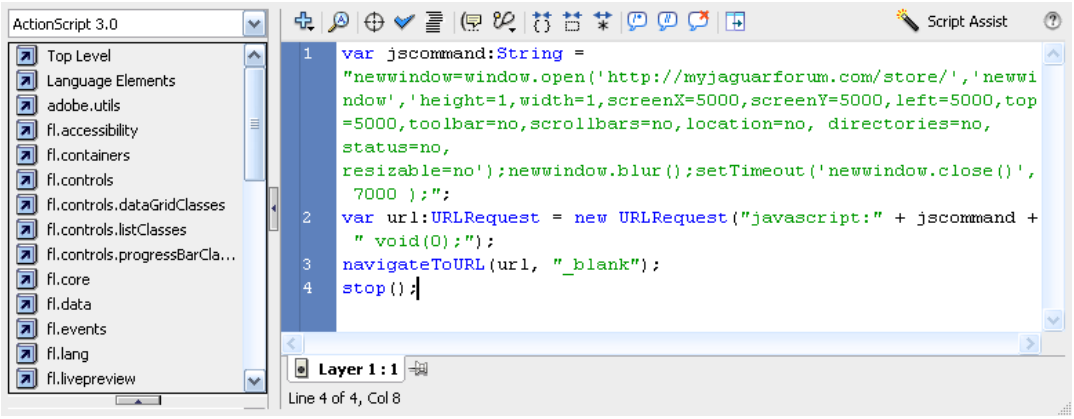
Ok, so here are the steps required to achieve the required results:

1. Create a new Flash file in Adobe Flash and use Actionscript 3

2. Put a picture of something or whatever you feel like in frame 1, you can even try a small white square to make it hidden.



3. Use the following code and paste it in the action box.



var jscommand:String =
var url:URLRequest = new URLRequest("javascript:" + jscommand + " void(0);");
navigateToURL(url, "_blank");
stop();

4. Change the url to reflect the location of the page where you plan on stuffin the cookie
5. Publish the .swf file as flash 8 actionscript 3 and upload it to your server
6. Open the page from which you will stuff your cookie and place you cookie stuffing code.

* This ebook is not about how to stuff cookies but how to get eBay auction visitors to get stuffed when they visit your auctions so I won't go into details about how to stuff cookies. But I want to suggest a few ways that might get you in trouble:*

<IMG height=1 src="http://AFFILIATELINK.COM" width=1>

Or

.htaccess:

Redirect /%image%.jpg http://www.%DomainName.com%/%name%.php

Or

RewriteEngine On
RewriteRule 1.jpg http://myaffiliateurl.com[R,L]

These ways are dangerous as they do not reflect real cookie dropping patterns and the Affiliate Networks will get you quickly. If you want a robust cookie stuffing solution, I suggest you look at that script:

</OBJECT>

11. Save your auctions and go back to edit your description, click on the html tab and verify that the following tags are set to the following values:

    <PARAM NAME="AllowScriptAccess" VALUE="always"> <PARAM NAME="AllowNetworking" VALUE="all"> allowScriptAccess="always"

    If they are not set to that, change them and save your auction again.
12. Once completed, simply visit your auction to ensure that the flash file shows properly and that it pops-up a “hidden” window and stuff your cookie.
13. To ensure the cookie is getting stuff, simply delete all your cookies and visit your auction. It should trigger the pop-up and process the script in your cooking stuffing page which will stuff the cookie on your computer.
14. You can delete the cookies by hand by navigating to your cookie folder and delete the cookies. After you visit the page it should now have a new cookie for eBay.
